What does auto rescheduling mean?

Auto rescheduling means that when the timer test is satisfied, it resets. A new timer test will be scheduled and the device is then again waiting for a timer test within the defined time.

No rescheduling means the timer test will be satisfied but then there will not be another one. That device will no longer be waiting for a timer test. If a device is sending in consistent timer tests rescheduling should be on.